The good folk of this borough are excellently catered for by Mr. Coc, the proprietor, as far as variety entertainmentoes, and Mr. Fred Revers, the hospit able manager of this hall. The chie attraction is "The Little Stowaway." the sketch in which at one time the latt Jennie Lee used to display her command of pathos in the name part. Lucy Fitzroy is a worthy successor, and sings her congs with effect. The veteran A. C. Lilly ends powerful aid to the sketch by his robust impersonation of the captain. All-round excellent support is giver by the rest of the company. A couple of deputies in the shape of cheerful Harry Wenburn and the Websters appeared during the evening of our visit, and their efforts met with hearty approval. James Norrie is in excellent roice, and "Sally in our Alley" had ful justice done to it. The Sisters Gerett are a couple of charming trapeze artistes, and their business is clever and attractive. PURTHER EVIDENCE AT THE

INQUEST.

Dr. Oswald resumed his inquiry at Chelese, into the death of Mrs. Firstence Bromley Smith, a young rearried lady, lately residing at Chelesa, whose death is alleged to have been accused by an illegal operation. Dr. Sydney Smith, Wandsworth Bridgerd, stands remanded from the Westminster Police Court charged with the murder of deceased. The inquest was formelly opened a fortnight ago, and adjourned for further inquiries. Prior to her death deceased made the following estatement to a magistrate whether the stands of the stands of the season of age, and I believe I am going to die. I don't know what has been done to me. Something was done about a menth ago. The doctor who attended me was Dr. Sydney Smith. I paid him. A20. He did what was done to me. No one was present at the time."—Hr. Williamson for the Tressury, and Mr. Birow for Dr. Smith.—Miss Rowe, sister of deceased, stated that deceased was in apparently good health recently. Her husband had not supported her during the last year or two. Latterly she did not know where he was. Her relatives supported her. Beb had no REGULAR MEDICAL ATTENDAT.

REGULAR MEDICAL ATTERDARY, and witness knew of no doctor she had consulted of late.—The Coroner: Did you ever see or know of any destor visiting your sister during January or February at Sydney-st. (her house)?—Witness: No. I did not know of her condition until this inquest. She was frequently worried and depressed. She was more than usually so during the last few months. On March 7 she look to her bed. She wrots to be mother stating that she was ill, and both witness and her mother visited her. They went alternately daily. Dr. Smith was in attondance.—Coroner: What did your sister say was the matter with her?—Witness: Jaundica. Dr. Smith said so, too. Continuing, the witness said that on March 20 her sister became so alarmingly ill that she sister became so alarmingly ill that she called in another doors, Dr. Bonney, of Elin Park-gardeus. Next morning Dr. Smith called to see deceased again. He said she had jaundice, and was in no danger. From that day he ceased attending Mrs. Smith. Dr. Bonney said deceased was alarmingly ill, and called Dr. Duncan, of Harley-st., in consultation. Subsequently Mr. Cust, a magistrate, attended on March 22, and saw deceased in the presence of witness mother, a nurse, and Dr. Jonney. Doceased was then very weak, but ler nind was quite clear. In reply to inquiries as to whether she had anything other than the statement she had made to the magistrate to communicate, deceased said to the witness that DR BONNEY WOLD FELLHER.

Knowing, as we do, our brother Boer, we do not take it for granted that, even if the facts are as stated, they are based upon a genuine desire for peace, and are not a mere device for the purpose of gain-ing time. Nevertheless, there is si for granted that, even it the large are assated, they are based upon a granted evice for the purpose of gaining time. Neverthelees, there is mothing improbable about the report—quite the contrary. Botha has always been understood to be personally desirous for peace, and now we are told that he has been moved to reopen negotiations in consequence of his colleand, that he came to the conclusion from the condition of De Wet himself and of his commando, that he had better act for himself without reference to the wishes of his colleague. It has often been reported that De Wet, and it is now said that fiscan does not regard him as answerable for his actions. It is now said that fiscan does not regard him as answerable for his actions. ITALY AND EUROPE.

It is not unnatural that the visit of the Italian fleet to Toulon should have set much rumour flying about as to a determination on the part of Italy to break with her German and Austrian partners by refusing to renew the Triple Alliance when that pact expires, as it shortly will. Of course in the case of such rumears as these the wish is father to the thought, and the wish, on the part of the French, is quite natural. France would like to think that the Alliance by which, 15 years ago, Bismarck put a straight-waistcoat upon French ambition for a war of revenge is played out, that Italy, weary of excessive expenditure on armaments, is sweking to escape from the obligations which have proved so burdensome in the past. France has always considered that she has a sort of traditional right to protect or to bully her neighbour as sis pleases; she has bitterly resented what she regards as the ingratitude of the Italians in declining to submit to that tuteloge; and she has punished them by a war of tariffs which has, undoubtedly, hit them very hard. Now, therefore, that the time is coming for Italy to reconsider her position with regard to her Allies, France is annious to detach her from them and to enlist her on the other side in the grouping of the Powers. Is there any probability that this attempt will succeed? In it justifiable to regard the visit to Toulon as anything more significant than a mere piece of international courtesy? The answer to both questions must, surely, be in the negative. It is quite true that the Italian people have no as posed more than the text and probability that this attempt will succeed? The occases returns for parishes in South Bucks show that the population in the agricultural districts is practically stationary. Turville, a parish on the borders of Oxfordshire, isolated from railway communication, has lost more than one-fifth of its inhabitants in the 10 years, but this is an exception to the general rule, which shows a way small increase in most parishes of Marlow and Wobura (Bourne End) show marked increases owing to residential developments for service by June next. A recent texamination shows that radical alterations have been made in the upper part of the yacht, and it is now declared by the authorities that when the change is completed she will be it to go anywhere without a pound of ballast.

The whole of the promenade deck, the various apartments beneath it, with various apartments beneath it, with all the fittings, have been removed, and nothing will be left above the main deck but the captain's bridge, beneath which there will be a smoking-room and, perhaps, one or two other apartments. Over 400 tons weight hes thus been taken from the upper deck, and it is stated that eventually the yacht will be like a new craft. As showing the superiority of the Royal yacht, it is pointed out that no part of her propeller is to be seen above water, even though she is empty.

FIGMTING MAC'S JUBILEE. Yesterday Major-General licetor MacDonald entered upon his 90th year, having been born on April 13. 1832. He had served nearly 10 years as a private and non-commissioned officer when he received a second lieutenant's commission in the 92nd in Jan, 1880. In the course of his distinguished career he has served in Afghanistan, the Transvand Campaign of 1881, and repeatedly in the Soudan. "FIGMTING MAC" AND THE KING. Gen. Macdonald is, in some ways, the most striking figure in the King's Army, and the King is proud of him. "How is it we have not met before" the King, when he was Prince of Wales, is said to have asked "Fighting Mac." "Pardon me, sir, I think we have," said Macdonald. "Where can that have been?" asked the Prince's cand Hector Macdonald was not sentry outside the Prince's tent in India. King Edward, who always does sentry outside the Prince's tent in India. King Edward, who always does the right thing at the right moment, then did and said a gracious thing. Holding out his hand, he said: "Gen. Macdonald, you were doing sentry 60 in 1873, and now you are a general in the British Army. I am proud to have met. LORD KIMBERLEY.

THE RUMOURED PEACE
NEGOTIATIONS.
There is, the "Times" understands, no foundation for the Cape Town story that Gen. Botha has reopened negotiations or, apparently, for any of the other circumstantial statements as to his alleged acts or intentions. He may cherish the purpose attr buted to him, but if he does the fetit is unknown in authoritative quarters. The strong probability is that the telegrams are nothing more than a reproduction of the local rumours which spring up amongst the goesipe of places like Cape Ilowa in time of war. They may be dismissed without farther consideration.

Cape Town in time or were any many bed dismissed without further consideration.

The route from Laydsdorp to Zoutnansberg is alleged by the Bosrs to be protected by three mountain forts named Schutte, Hendrina, and Botha, each of which is armed with heavy guns. In these or commences, it is claimed by some of Mr. Kruger's more intimate friends in Brussels that the Boer forces could resist the British for a considerable time. The wiew, however, is not generally held in Transval circles in this city (saw the Brassels correspondent of the "Standard"). The advisebility is recognized of seing any opportunity for bringing about peace, since a prolongation of the struggle is useless.

HIMSELF.

He stood in the sidswings of the stage. It had been his second appearance on the boards of a variety temple. The din of the usual seneational sketch that was taking place somewhat confused him. His line was bread comedy. He had commenced with the usual Bacchanalian ditties that what the description of the second water the usual Bacchanalian ditties that glorified the ever popular pewer pot and dealt caustically with the failings of the much-wronged mother-in-law. The expression on his face was allied to anything but mirth; in fact it suggested that at one time nature had really cast him in an old-fash oned mould, that would have more betitted the new defunct tearful ornament attend an antity.
